

CONTENTS

List of Figures vii

Defining Third Cinema and World Cinema 1

PART 1 Revisiting films

- 1 Exporting cinemarxism in the 1960s: The case of Soy Cuba Andrei Rogatchevski 25
- 2 Brazil's open cities: Mimicry, sexuality and class dynamics in the urban landscape of 1960s cinema Bruce Williams 63
- 3 'Unreal city': The aesthetics of commitment in Pratidwandi and Interview Koel Banerjee 83
- 4 The Peruvian Kuntur group: A Marxist-Indigenist filmmaking practice Isabel Seguí 99

PART 2 Comparative readings

- 5 The legacy of the furnaces: The twenty-first century documentaries of Fernando Solanas Mariano Paz 121
- 6 Third Cinema after the turn of the millennium: Reification of the sign and the possibility of transformation Paulina Aroch Fugellie and André Dorcé 141
- 7 We have never been transnational: The female condition in socialist realism, postsocialism and Third Cinema Lucian Tion 163

PART 3 Third Cinema versus World Cinema

- 8 Dialogical encounters on the cinema of revolution: Save the Children Fund Film and Metalepsis in Black David Archibald and Finn Daniels-Yeomans 189
 - 9 Newsreel Front: A revived vision of Third Cinema in Slovenia Andrej Šprah 213
 - 10 Listening to the future: The film-philosophy of Abderrahmane Sissako William Brown 235
 - 11 Class, gender and ethnicity in Alfonso Cuarón's Roma Ewa Mazierska 255
 - 12 'After' or back to Third Cinema? Plebeian film, the national popular, fingernails and the resilient behemoth Enrique Uribe-Jongbloed and Toby Miller 273
- Index* 290