

Contents

List of Illustrations	ix
Preface	xvi
Introduction	1
How to Study Documentary	1
How to Use This Book	3
1 Ways to Think About Documentary	5
Description	5
Definition	9
Intellectual Contexts	11
2 Origins	17
Early War and Propaganda Films	22
Propaganda	25
3 Exploration and Establishment	33
Exploration	34
Early Visual Anthropology	38
Frances and Robert Flaherty	41
4 The Soviets	59
Reportage/Newsreel	61
Theory	64
Compilation	66
Epic	68
Fiction and Documentary	70
5 Avant-Garde Expressions	75
Avant-Garde and Documentary	76
City Symphonies	78
Three Classic European City Symphonies	81
Changes in the Avant-Garde	86

6	Institutionalization: Great Britain, 1929–39	89
	Background	91
	The System	93
	The Films	97
	Women Filmmakers	103
	Grierson's Lasting Contribution	106
7	Institutionalization: United States	111
	The March of Time	112
	Government Sponsorship	114
	Nongovernment Documentaries	122
	Comparisons: The United Kingdom and The United States	127
	Canada	129
	An Aside	129
8	The Second World War	133
	Part A: Great Britain	133
	Part B: Canada	145
	Part C: United States	152
	Conclusions	169
9	The Postwar Era, 1945–60	177
	Personnel and Leadership	180
	Sponsorship	183
	Marshall Plan Films	184
	Canadian Independents	190
	USIA Films	191
	Subjects	195
	Approaches and Techniques	197
10	A New Channel: Documentary for Television, 1951–71	203
	A Technical Note	203
	Historical Background	204
	Documentary Series	206
	Characteristics of Broadcast Television Documentary	213
11	Free Cinema/New American Cinema, 1953–69	219
	Britain	219
	Critical Background	220
	The Films	221

Meaning	224
United States	226
New York School Films	227
New American Cinema	229
12 Cinéma Verité/Direct Cinema	233
Historical Background	234
New Technologies	235
Canada	237
United States	238
The Films	241
France	248
Direct Cinema versus Cinema Verité	250
Effects on Subjects and Styles	251
Opposite Directions	255
13 Power to the People: The 1970s	261
Some Established Filmmakers	262
New Directions in CV/Direct	266
Political Emphases	271
The Feminist Surge	275
Women's Institutions	276
Challenge for Change	278
Public Access Television	279
Other Emerging Organizations	280
Conclusions	283
14 Video Arrives and Conquers: The 1980s	287
Film to Video	287
Cable and Satellite Technology	290
The Personal Essay Film	293
Historical Compilation	294
Strictly Political	297
Ongoing Activism	297
Racial and Ethnic Voices	298
Canada	306
England	307
Representing Gay and Lesbian Culture	308

15	100 Years of Documentary	317
	Business and Technology: The Bad and the Good	318
	American Public Television	321
	Archival Storytelling	323
	The Ken Burns Phenomenon	328
	Canada Soldiers On	330
	Developments in the UK	332
	American Independents	337
16	Documentary Traditions in the Twenty-first Century	345
	United States	345
	Six Noted Filmmakers	348
	Animation	360
	Experimental Film	362
17	Academic and Theoretical Approaches	367
	Finance	369
	Money and Ethics	371
	Film Festivals	376
18	Now and When	381
	Globalization	382
	Aesthetics and Content	384
	Intimate Doings of Reality	386
	Technologies	388
	Social Media and Documentary	392
	Commitment to History	394
	Effectiveness	397
	Conclusions	401
	Documentaries About Documentaries	407
	Filmmakers	409
	Introduction to Lists	409
	First-generation Documentary Makers	411
	Second-generation Documentary Makers	413
	Third-generation Documentary Makers	415
	Author Index	420
	Film Titles	432