

Contents

List of Figures	vii
Acknowledgements	ix

1 Introduction	1
MELANIE SWALWELL, HELEN STUCKEY AND ANGELA NDALIANIS

SECTION I

Historicizing Game Fandom

2 Early Games Production, Gamer Subjectivation and the Containment of the Ludic Imagination	19
GRAEME KIRKPATRICK
3 Transitioning to the Digital: Run5 Magazine as Archive and Account of SSG's Dialogue with Wargamers in the 1980s	38
HELEN STUCKEY
4 Keeping the Spectrum Alive: Platform Fandom in a Time of Transition	57
JAROSLAV ŠVELCH
5 Pirates, Platforms and Players: Theorising Post-Consumer Fan Histories through the Sega Dreamcast	75
SKOT DEEMING AND DAVID MURPHY

SECTION II

Fan Contributions to Game History

- 6 EVE Online's War Correspondents: Player Journalism as History 93
NICK WEBBER
- 7 NES Homebrew and the Margins of the Retro-gaming Industry 111
JOHN VANDERHOEF
- 8 Museums of Failure: Fans as Curators of “Bad”, Unreleased, and “Flopped” Videogames 128
VÍCTOR NAVARRO-REMESAL
- 9 World -1: Glitching, Codemining and Procedural Level Creation in Super Mario Bros. 146
JAMES NEWMAN

SECTION III

The Archive

- 10 Repacking My Library 165
JENNIFER DEWINTER AND CARLY A. KOCUREK
- 11 Sega Saturn Fan Sites and the Vernacular Curation of Videogame History 180
BENJAMIN NICOLL
- 12 Unusable Archives: Everyday Play and the Everyplay Archives 197
JAMES MANNING
- 13 Moving on from the Original Experience: Philosophies of Preservation and Dis/play in Game History 213
MELANIE SWALWELL
- List of Contributors* 235
Index 239