

Contents

List of Illustrations	vii
Acknowledgments	x
Introduction	1
Masha Shpolberg and Lukas Brasiskis
Part I. Industrializing the Bloc: Cinema of the Socialist Period
Chapter 1. Sad and Bitter Landscapes: Ecology and the Built Environment in Czech and East German Photography and Film	21
Katie Trumpener and Alice Lovejoy
Chapter 2. From Mastery to Indistinction: Nature in Thaw-Era Cinema	49
Lida Oukaderova
Chapter 3. Specters of Ecology in Cold War Soviet Science Fiction Film	64
Natalija Majsova
Part II. Environmental Crisis and the Nuclear Imaginary
Chapter 4. Postapocalyptic Landscapes: The End of August at the Hotel Ozone (1966) and the Czechoslovak New Wave	87
Barbora Bartunkova
Chapter 5. Fallow Fields: Crises of Masculinity and Ecology in Piotr Andrejew's Tender Spots (1981)	107
Eliza Rose
Chapter 6. Catastrophe, Obliquely: Soviet Documentaries about Chernobyl	124
Masha Shpolberg

Part III. Animals between the Natural and the Social

Chapter 7. Is There a Place for the Animal? Shot Scale, Modernity, and the Urban Landscape in Lithuanian Documentary Natalija Arlauskaitė	147
--	-----

Chapter 8. Against Interpretation: Animals in Contemporary Hungarian Cinema Raymond De Luca	158
--	-----

Part IV. From Communism to Capitalism: Privatization and the Commons

Chapter 9. Okraina and “Oil Ontology” in Post-Soviet Russian Cinema José Alaniz	177
---	-----

Chapter 10. Upholding the Village, the Beach, the Last Resort: The (Threatened) Idyll in Bulgarian Cinema Dina Iordanova	196
---	-----

Part V. Toward an Eastern European Ecocinema

Chapter 11. Coming to the Senses: Environmental Ethics and the Limits of Narrative in Contemporary Slovenian Cinema Meta Mazaj	217
---	-----

Chapter 12. Cinema of the Forest People: From Environmental Consciousness Toward Ecocritical Perspectives in Polish (Post)communist Film Kris Van Heuckelom	238
--	-----

Chapter 13. Beyond the Utopian Landscape in Post-Soviet Russian Cinema Michael Cramer and Jeremi Szaniawski	253
--	-----

Chapter 14. Recycling, Citroën Cars, and Roma Refugees in Boris Mitić’s Pretty Dyana Alice Bardan	271
---	-----

Chapter 15. Foggy Past, Windy Present: Elemental Critique in Recent East Central European Artists’ Films Lukas Brasiskis	288
---	-----

Index	301
--------------	-----