

Contents

List of abbreviations	vii
About the translations	ix
Acknowledgements	xi
Introduction
Reel socialism	1
Thesis aim and research questions	3
The state of the art	7
Theoretical frameworks	12
History culture	12
Making sense of history	17
Film and historiography	24
The history film	28
National cinema and history	36
Methodology	39
Film and reception analysis	39
Materials	46
Comparison and case selection	51
Part I
Chapter 1: Cinema and communism, 1945–1989	59
Cinema after Nazism	60
Cinema and censorship under communism	63
The Czechoslovak New Wave	68
Normalization and the end of communism	70
Chapter 2: East European film industries after 1989	75
The end of Czechoslovak cinema	76
The end of East German cinema	80

Part II

Reel Revolutions: 'Was there, or wasn't there?' 87

Chapter 3: Making sense of the velvet revolution in Czech cinema	91
Belated enthusiasm: Were we really like that?	92
A testing time for the revolution: Examination Period	96
Dig where you stand: The Beginning of a Long Autumn	99
The return to disillusionment	103
The velvet revolution remembered and forgotten	110
Conclusions	115
Chapter 4: Making sense of the peaceful revolution in German cinema	117
DEFA and the revolution	117
The peaceful revolution in German media	122
West German directors and the revolution	128
The Promise and 'how it actually was'	131
A new plurality in Heroes Like Us	134
Herr Lehmann and the Grand Unification Party	137
Conclusions	139

Part III

Reel Lives: Post-communist nostalgia 143

Chapter 5: Czech post-communist retro cinema	151
Nostalgia for a paradise lost: Elementary School	151
Self-reflexive retrospection and Czech musicals	158
Big Bear : A singing retrospective on Stalinism	161
Finally a good laugh: The Wonderful Years that Sucked	168
A retreat to the Cosy Dens	172
The Thirty Cases of Major Zeman	180
The Rebels —without a cause	185
Conclusions	188
Chapter 6: German post-communist Ostalgie cinema	193
Go Trabi Go	195
Go Trabi Go II—That was the wild East	199
Sun Alley—Ostalgie as defiance	204
Good Bye, Lenin! and the wave of nostalgia	211
Conclusions	216

Part IV
Reel Crimes: Coming to terms with the communist past	221
Chapter 7: Communist crimes in Czech cinema	227
Stalinism á la Švejk: Tank Battalion	229
Dark Blue World : A monument to betrayed heroes	236
Anti-communism and dissidence	240
Conclusions	247
Chapter 8: Communist crimes in German cinema	251
The lives of others in the media	252
The lives of others or, 'what it was really like'	259
Conclusions	263
Conclusions
Making sense of history in Czech and German cinema since 1989	267
Sources and Literature	275
Filmography	279
Bibliography	285
Film index	327
CDR	German Democratic Republic
IM	Informelle Mitarbeiter (Informal collaborators for East)
CDP	Občanská demokratická strana (Civic Democratic Party)
OP	Občanský front (Civic Forum)
PD	Partei des Demokratischen Sozialismus (Party of Democratic Socialism)
SOZ	Sowjetische Besatzungszone (Soviet Occupation Zone)
SPD	Sozialistische Einheitspartei Deutschlands (Socialist Unity Party of Germany)
SDD	Sozialdemokratische Partei Deutschlands (Social Democratic Party of Germany)
StS	Staatliches Ministerium für Staatssicherheit (the East German Ministry for State Security)
SB	Státní bezpečnost (the Czechoslovak secret police)