

Contents

Introduction	1
The Melodramatic Field: An Investigation Christine Gledhill	5
PART ONE: STARTING OUT
Tales of Sound and Fury Observations on the Family Melodrama Thomas Elsaesser	43
Minnelli and Melodrama Geoffrey Nowell-Smith	70
Notes on Sirk and Melodrama Laura Mulvey	75
PART TWO: WITH WOMAN IN MIND STUDIES IN PRODUCTION AND CONSUMPTION
Who is Without Sin? The Maternal Melodrama in American Film, 1930–39 Christian Viviani	83
Censorship and the Fallen Woman Cycle Lea Jacobs	100
Mothering, Feminism and Representation The Maternal in Melodrama and the Woman's Film 1910–40 E. Ann Kaplan	113
Producing and Consuming the Woman's Film Discursive Struggle in Now, Voyager Maria LaPlace	138
Historical Pleasures Gainsborough Costume Melodrama Sue Harper	167

Hollywood, Freud and the Representation of Women Regulation and Contradiction, 1945–early 60s Janet Walker	197
---	-----

PART THREE: HOLLYWOOD'S FAMILY ROMANCES
QUESTIONS OF FANTASY, DESIRE AND IDEOLOGY

Vincente Minnelli Thomas Elsaesser	217
Griffith's Family Discourse Griffith and Freud Nick Browne	223
Artful Racism, Artful Rape Griffith's Broken Blossoms Julia Lesage	235
A Case of Mistaken Legitimacy Class and Generational Difference in Three Family Melodramas Richard de Cordova	255
Madness, Authority and Ideology The Domestic Melodrama of the 1950s David N. Rodowick	268

PART FOUR: WHAT DO WOMEN WANT?
PROBLEMS IN REPRESENTATION AND READING

The 'Woman's Film' Possession and Address Mary Ann Doane	283
'Something Else Besides a Mother' Stella Dallas and the Maternal Melodrama Linda Williams	299
Time and Desire in the Woman's Film Tania Modleski	326
Women's Genres Melodrama, Soap Opera and Theory Annette Kuhn	339
APPENDIX
Further Reading	350
Index	357