

CONTENTS

Notes on contributors page ix

Introduction – Literature on screen: a synoptic view
DEBORAH CARTMELL AND IMELDA WHELEHAN 1

PART ONE THEORIES OF LITERATURE ON SCREEN 13

1 Reading film and literature
BRIAN MCFARLANE 15

2 Literature on screen, a history: in the gap
TIMOTHY CORRIGAN 29

PART TWO HISTORY AND CONTEXTS 45

3 Gospel narratives on silent film
JUDITH BUCHANAN 47

4 William Shakespeare, filmmaker
DOUGLAS LANIER 61

5 The nineteenth-century novel on film: Jane Austen
LINDA V. TROOST 75

6 Modernism and adaptation
MARTIN HALLIWELL 90

7 Postmodern adaptation: pastiche, intertextuality and re-functioning
PETER BROOKER 107

CONTENTS

	PART THREE GENRE, INDUSTRY, TASTE	121
8	Heritage and literature on screen: Heimat and heritage ECKART VOIGTS-VIRCHOW	123
9	“Don’t let’s ask for the moon!”: reading and viewing the woman’s film IMELDA WHELEHAN	138
10	Post-classical fantasy cinema: The Lord of the Rings I. Q. HUNTER	154
11	Adapting children’s literature DEBORAH CARTMELL	167
12	Literature on the small screen: television adaptations SARAH CARDWELL	181
	PART FOUR BEYOND THE “LITERARY”	197
13	Classic literature and animation: all adaptations are equal, but some are more equal than others PAUL WELLS	199
14	High fidelity? Music in screen adaptations ANNETTE DAVISON	212
15	From screen to text: novelization, the hidden continent JAN BAETENS	226
16	A practical understanding of literature on screen: two conversations with Andrew Davies DEBORAH CARTMELL AND IMELDA WHELEHAN	239
	Further reading	252
	Index	263