Table of Contents

Preface xi

PART 1. THE PRACTICAL, TECHNICAL AND THEORETICAL CONTEXT 1

Chapter 1. Analysis of an Audiovisual Resource 3

1.1. Introduction. 3
1.2. Functionally different corpora. 4
1.3. Descriptive models 10
1.4. On the activity of analysis of audiovisual corpora 12
1.5. On the activity of indexation. 14
1.6. Some reflections on the subject of the theoretical reference framework 15

Chapter 2. The Audiovisual Semiotic Workshop (ASW) Studio – A Brief Presentation 23

2.1. A working environment for analyzing corpora of audiovisual texts. . . 23
2.2. Brief presentation of the ASW Description Workshop 27
2.3 Four approaches to analyzing an audiovisual text. 33
2.4. Models of description and interactive working forms 36

Chapter 3. A Concrete Example of a Model for Describing Audiovisual Content. 39

3.1. Introduction. 39
3.2. Selecting the appropriate model from the library of descriptive models of description of audiovisual content. 40
3.3. The sequences in a model of content description. 43

3.4. Field of description and sequential organization of an analytical form 46
3.5. The level of schemas of definition and procedures of description 48

Chapter 4. Model of Description and Task of Analysis 51

4.1. Introduction 51
4.2. The structural organization of a model of audiovisual content description 52
4.3. The canonic syntagmatic order of a form of description 54
4.4. Types of analysis, analytical tasks, procedures of description and activities of description 58
4.5. Particular tasks in analyzing the content of an audiovisual corpus . . . 61
4.6. Concluding remarks 63

PART 2. TASKS IN ANALYZING AN AUDIOVISUAL CORPUS 65

Chapter 5. The Analytical Task of "Describing the Knowledge Object" 67

5.1. Introduction 67
5.2. A simple example of referential description 68
5.3. Thematic structure, topical structure and referential objects 70
5.4. A library of sequences for referential description 73
5.5. Alternative functional architectures to define sequences of referential description 76

Chapter 6. The Analytical Task of "Contextualizing the Domain of Knowledge" 81

6.1. Introduction 81
6.2. Contextualization by spatial location 82
6.3. Location and contextualization by country 84
6.4. Geographical-physical location and contextualization 88
6.5. Contextualization by temporal location 93
6.6. Contextualization by historical era 96
6.7. Historical contextualization and periodization 101
6.8. Thematic contextualization 102

Chapter 7. The Analytical Task of "Analyzing the Discourse Production around a Subject" 107

7.1. Introduction 107
7.2. Procedures of discourse production 108

7.3. Anatomy of the description of discourse production around a subject 113
7.4. Examples illustrating analysis of discourse production 116
7.5. Textual and discursive assessment 120

PART 3. PROCEDURES OF DESCRIPTION 123

Chapter 8. Definition of the Domain of Knowledge and Configuration of the Topical Structure 125

8.1. Introduction 125
8.2. Some reminders and specifications 126
8.3. (Re-)configuring and adapting an existing topical structure 130
8.4. (Re-)configuring more complex topical structures 133

Chapter 9. The Procedure of Free Description of an Audiovisual Corpus 139

9.1. Introduction 139
9.2. Organization of the so-called "free description" procedure 140
9.3. The descriptive activity [Minimal designation] 143
9.4. The descriptive activity [Contextualized designation] 146
9.5. The activities of [Drafting of a summary presentation] and [Designation of the referent in the original language] 149
9.6. The descriptive activity [Designation of the referent by keywords] . . . 150
9.7. Pragmatic and onomasiological variants of the activity of [Minimal designation] 153

Chapter 10. The Procedure of Controlled Description of an Audiovisual Corpus 155

10.1. Introduction 155
10.2. Organization of the procedure called controlled description 156
10.3. Working with several micro-thesauruses 159
10.4. Selecting, classifying and ranking terms using a micro-thesaurus . . . 161
10.5. An approach combining controlled and free description 163

PART 4. THE ASW SYSTEM OF METALINGUISTIC RESOURCES 167

Chapter 11. An Overview of the ASW Metalinguistic Resources 169

11.1. Introduction 169
11.2. General overview of the ASW system of metalinguistic resources . . 170
11.3. The ASW meta-lexicon of conceptual terms 174
11.4. The ASW thesaurus 177

11.5. The schemas of definition 180
11.6. The sequences of description. 184
11.7. Resources external to the ASW system. 187
11.8. ASW Modeling Workshop 190

Chapter 12. The Meta-lexicon Representing the ASW Universe of Discourse 197

12.1. Introduction 197
12.2. "Conceptual term" and "theme" – a few explanations 198
12.3. The definitional structure of a topic. 200
12.4. The ASW universe of discourse 202
12.5. The general organization of the vocabulary relating to analytical objects in the ASW universe of discourse. 206
12.6. Questions relating to the organization of the ASW vocabulary of conceptual terms representing analytical objects 210
12.7. The process of developing the ASW vocabulary of conceptual terms defining analytical objects 214

Chapter 13. Detailed Presentation of the Conceptual Vocabulary [Object of analysis] 217

13.1. Introduction 217
13.2. The two branches [Natural object] and [Object of value] 218
13.3. Questions of organization of the ASW meta-lexicon. 221
13.4. How are we to take account of different classifications? 226
13.5. The conceptual domain represented by the term [Functional material object] 229
13.6. The conceptual domain represented by the term [Social object] 233
13.7. The conceptual domain represented by the term [Cultural object]. . . 235
13.8. Taxonomic domains belonging to the branch [Primary symbolic object] 238
13.9. Taxonomic domains belonging to the branch [Secondary symbolic object] 242
13.10. The taxonomic domains of the branch [Object "Perdurant"] 245
13.11. The taxonomic domains of the branch [Object "Region"]. 248

Chapter 14. The Meta-lexicon of Activities Involved in Analyzing the Textual Object 251

14.1 Introduction 251
14.2. Four categories of textual analysis activities 252
14.3. The class of activities [Procedure of structural analysis of the textual object] 255

14.4. The class of activities [Procedure of analysis of the textual object using the ASW thesaurus] 259
14.5. The class of activities [Procedure of analysis using an ASW external reference] 260
14.6. The class of activities [Procedure of pragmatic analysis of the textual object] 264
14.7. Activity of analysis and schemas of indexation 265
14.8. The library of schemas of indexing 268

Chapter 15. The ASW Thesaurus 273

15.1. Introduction 273
15.2. General presentation of the ASW thesaurus 274
15.3. Facets and lists of standardized expressions 277

Chapter 16. The Configurational Building Blocks of Models of Description 281

16.1. Introduction 281
16.2. Analysis of an audiovisual text and models of description 282
16.3. The library of sequences making up the model of thematic description 284
16.4. Definition and insertion of a sequence into a model of description . . 289
16.5. Summary presentation of a library of schemas of definition 292

Conclusion and Perspectives 297

Bibliography 301

Glossary of Specialized Terms 307

Glossary of Acronyms 337

Index 349