

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Abbreviations	x
Prologue: Why Sherlock? Narrator Investment in the BBC Series LYNDSAY FAYE	1
Introduction: The Literary, Televisual and Digital Adventures of the Beloved Detective LOUISA ELLEN STEIN and KRISTINA BUSSE	9
Part One: Transmedia and Collective Intelligence
Sherlock's Epistemological Economy and the Value of "Fan" Knowledge: How Producer-Fans Play the (Great) Game of Fandom MATT HILLS	27
Winning "The Grand Game": Sherlock and the Fragmentation of Fan Discourse ASHLEY D. POLASEK	41
Part Two: Sherlock Then and Now
"But It's the Solar System!" Reconciling Science and Faith Through Astronomy ARIANA SCOTT-ZECHLIN	56
Terror, Nostalgia, and the Pursuit of Sherlock Holmes in Sherlock ELLEN BURTON HARRINGTON	70
Decoding the Industrial and Digital City: Visions of Security in Holmes' and Sherlock's London ANNE KUSTRITZ and MELANIE E.S. KOHNEN	85

Part Three: Adaptations and Intertextuality

Shaping Sherlocks: Institutional Practice and the Adaptation of Character ELIZABETH JANE EVANS	102
Sherlock's Webs: What the Detective Remembered from the Doctor About Transmediality CB HARVEY	118
Holmes in the Small Screen: The Television Contexts of Sherlock TOM STEWARD	133

Part Four: Interpreting Sherlock

"Good Old Index"; or, The Mystery of the Infinite Archive ROBERTA PEARSON	150
Sherlock : Critical Reception by the Media PAUL RIXON	165
Holmes Abroad: Dutch Fans Interpret the Famous Detective NICOLLE LAMERICHS	179

Part Five: Postmodern Sherlock

Sherlock and the (Re)Invention of Modernity BALAKA BASU	196
Sherlock as Cyborg: Bridging Mind and Body FRANCESCA COPPA	210
Conclusion: Transmedia Sherlock and Beyond KRISTINA BUSSE and LOUISA ELLEN STEIN	224
About the Contributors	232
Index	235