

Contents

Foreword	xi
I. Aesthetics, Social Commentary and Analysis
The Art of Cineplastics, by Élie Faure	3
Style and Medium in the Moving Pictures, by Erwin Panofsky	15
Film Reality: The Cinema and the Theater, by Allardyce Nicoll	33
A Note on the Film, by Susanne Langer	51
Hollywood's Surrealist Eye, by Parker Tyler	56
The Film Age, by Arnold Hauser	64
The Bankruptcy of Cinema as Art, by Seymour Stern	76
The Mechanized Muse, by Margaret Kennedy	94
Directors of the Thirties, by John Grierson	124
Comedy's Greatest Era, by James Agee	144

The Westerner, by Robert Warshow	162
Underground Films, by Manny Farber	177
Movies, the Desperate Art, by Pauline Kael	189
S-e-x, by Gilbert Seldes	210
The Informer , by George Bluestone	221
Movies: A Psychological Study, by Martha Wolfenstein and Nathan Leites	244

II. Theory and Technique

Film Technique, by V. I. Pudovkin	267
Theory of the Film, by Béla Balázs	279
Film as Art, by Rudolph Arnheim	294
The Cinematographic Principle and the Ideogram, by Sergei Eisenstein	324
How Films Are Made, by René Clair	339
Cocteau on the Film, by Jean Cocteau	348
Some Principles of Documentary, by Paul Rotha	357

III. History and Personal

First Night on Broadway, by Terry Ramsaye	373
Méliès, by Maurice Bardèche and Robert Brasillach	381
D. W. Griffith, by Lewis Jacobs	392
Caligari, by Siegfried Kracauer	449
Charlie Chaplin: Portrait of the Moralist, by Robert Payne	465
The Renaissance of the French Cinema—Feyder, Renoir, Duvivier, Carné, by Georges Sadoul	479
The Golden Age, by Henry Miller	498
The Great Goldwyn, by Alva Johnston	510
The Movie Colony, by Leo C. Rosten	522
Everything Has Just Gone Zoom, by Lillian Ross	545
Enter, the Movies, by Ben Hecht	582
Notes on the Contributors	613
Bibliography	619
Index	625